

"Could Be Anything"

by John Welton and Rick Phillips

© 2005

Everybody needs somebody
Everybody needs a friend
I'm no exception, but sometimes I feel...
Like I'll be lonely til the very end

I got my baby and my guitar
Hope to keep both of them around
If either one of them should knock me down
The other one will pick me back up off of the ground

In this moment we could change the world together
Or you could close your mind and close me out
If you find something in these words
Could be anything at all
Then maybe you could tell me what this song is about

Everybody's got to live life and everybody's got to die
There's no exceptions so why would we waste...
Another moment trying to figure out why
Let's get to living up the good life
The good old days are right here and right now
No matter where this roads leads us from here
I know we're gonna get there together some how

And in that moment we will change the world together
With an open mind, there is no doubt
If you found something in these words
Could be anything at all

Then maybe we just told you what this song is about
It's crazy, but we don't know what this song is about