

"We Must Be"

by John Welton

© 2002

I must be here to learn, so I'm open for suggestions
Won't you tell me something good, please enlighten me
'Cause every where you turn
There's an answer to your questions
So close to your eyes sometimes it's hard to see

Because I know there's a purpose f
For each and every one of us
Ooooo, just might be right here in front to of us
Right here in front of us

We must be here to live, not just barely survive
Every day is a day to celebrate being alive
And life and get you down sometimes fate can be unkind
But if you listen to your soul, the answers with you all the time

We must be here to love
What else could there be
The ocean of emotions is a bottomless sea
You can swim and play
Sometimes you'll find yourself drowning
Gasping for breath with your broken heart pounding

We must be here to love
What else could there be
The ocean of emotions is a bottomless sea
You can swim and play sometimes you'll find yourself drowning
Searching for something that has you surrounded
Searching for something that has you surrounded
We're all searching for something that has us surrounded